

Eastside Food Co-op Board Candidate Packet

for terms beginning Fall 2018

Candidate Application due date:
Monday, July 2, 2018

Dear Prospective Eastside Food Cooperative Board Candidate,

Thank you for your interest in serving on the Eastside Food Co-op Board of Directors!

Please read over the enclosed information carefully before filling out the application. In 2018, the election will fill up to three seats. Each of these seats will be elected to a three-year term.

Eastside's owners select board members during an election at each annual meeting (see Bylaws, Section 3.1). All candidates must be members of the co-op.

Candidates must submit their application, brief written responses to the questions, and a high-resolution head shot, by 5:00 pm on Monday, July 2, 2018, to be included on the formal ballot.

In addition, to learn more about the board's work, candidates are strongly encouraged to attend the following:

1. Attend at least one regular meeting of the board of directors in 2018. Board meetings are held on the second Monday of each month in the Eastside Food Co-op community room. Meetings begin with an informal gathering at 5:30 for dinner, with a call to order at 6:00 pm. Meetings typically run until 8:30 pm. Upcoming meeting dates are May 14, June 11, July 9, August 13 and September 10.
2. Attend the regional CBL 101 training for cooperative boards of directors, to be offered by CDS Consulting Co-op on Saturday, September 22, 2018 from 8:30 am – 4:00 pm in St. Paul.

All candidates must also agree to abide by the Director's Code of Conduct if elected to serve on the board. If elected, all new board members will attend an orientation session, led by current Eastside board members to be held on Monday, October 29, 6:00 – 9:00 pm.

Owners who do not submit a formal written application by the Monday, July 2, 2018 deadline have the option of running for the board as a write-in candidate.

Cooperatively yours,

Eastside Food Co-op Board of Directors (board@eastsidefood.coop)

As businesses driven by values, not just profit, cooperatives share internationally agreed-upon principles and act together to build a better world through cooperation. Eastside strives to adhere to the 7 Cooperative Principles and the 10 Cooperative Values shown below as identified by the International Cooperative Alliance:

7 Cooperative Principles:

1. Voluntary and Open Membership

Cooperatives are voluntary organizations, open to all persons able to use their services and willing to accept the responsibilities of membership without gender, social, racial, political, or religious discrimination.

2. Democratic Member Control

Cooperatives are democratic organizations controlled by their members who actively participate in setting their policies and making decisions. People serving as elected representatives are accountable to the membership. In primary cooperatives, members have equal voting rights (one member, one vote) and cooperatives at other levels are organized in a democratic manner.

3. Member Economic Participation

Members contribute equitably and democratically control the capital of their cooperative. Part of that capital is usually the common property of the cooperative. Members may receive limited compensation on capital subscribed as a condition of membership. Members allocate surpluses for any or all of the following purposes: developing the cooperative, setting up operating reserves, part of which at least would be indivisible; benefiting members in proportion to their transactions with the cooperative; and supporting other activities approved by the membership.

4. Autonomy and Independence

Cooperatives are autonomous, self-help organizations controlled by their members. If they enter into agreements with other organizations, including governments, or raise capital from external sources, they do so on terms which ensure democratic control by their members and maintain their cooperative autonomy.

5. Education, Training, and Information

Cooperatives provide education and training for their members, elected representatives, managers, and employees so they can contribute effectively to the development of their cooperatives. They inform the general public—particularly young people and opinion leaders—about the nature and benefits of cooperation.

6. Cooperation Among Cooperatives

Cooperatives serve their members most effectively and strengthen the cooperative movement by working together through local, national, regional and international structures.

7. Concern for Community

While focusing on member needs, cooperatives work for the sustainable development of their communities through policies accepted by their members.

Cooperative Values

Basic cooperative values are general norms that cooperators, cooperative leaders and cooperative staff should share; the values should determine their way of thinking and acting. This list of ten values was proclaimed by the International Cooperative Alliance in 1995.

Self-help
Self-responsibility
Democracy
Equality
Equity
Solidarity
Honesty
Openness
Social Responsibility
Caring for others

Frequently Asked Questions about Serving on the Board

What is the Board of Directors and what does it do?

The board of directors is the governing body for the owners of Eastside. It is composed of up to nine people, all owners of the co-op, elected by owners. A maximum of two directors may also be employees of the cooperative. All directors, including employees, represent the ownership at large rather than any special subgroup. Terms for directors may range from one to three years as needed to ensure that no more than three directors' terms are scheduled to expire every year.

The board is responsible for ensuring organizational performance on behalf of all of Eastside's owners. This work includes developing clearly stated expectations through written policies; delegating responsibility for, and authority over, the achievement of stated objectives; and monitoring compliance with written policies. The board uses a system of governance called Policy Governance, described more fully on pages 7-8. The board governs the organization and delegates all operational duties to one employee, the general manager. The board participates actively in strategic planning, financial oversight, owner linkage, board training and development and community outreach.

As Will Rogers said, "Even though you are on the right track - you will get run over if you just sit there." The board should be strategic and visionary with its view toward the future of our cooperative, rather than focusing solely on the short-term. By devoting time to focus on the big-picture vision of Eastside, the board ensures that we adequately position our organization for the maximum benefit of our owners, as well as anticipates trends and values that may have a critical impact on our relevance and survival.

What does the Board of Directors NOT do?

The board of directors does not make decisions about, become involved with, or take part in any of the day-to-day activities or decisions regarding the operation of the co-op. The board's sole official connection to the operations of the cooperative is through the general manager.

What are the requirements for running?

Directors must be owners of Eastside in good standing without a substantial conflict of interest resulting from an affiliation with any enterprise that is in competition with the co-op. Once elected, directors must agree to abide by the Code of Conduct and publicly disclose any potential conflicts of interest. Previous board experience is helpful, but is not a prerequisite for service. Most important are the willingness to work closely and cooperatively with the other directors, committing the time and energy needed to accomplish the board's objectives and fulfill the required term, working collaboratively and productively in a collective decision-making process, having the ability to learn quickly and possessing strong organizational skills.

How much time would I need to put into serving?

The board holds one regular meeting of about 2.5 hours each month, at which attendance by all directors is expected. Beyond this regular meeting, the time commitment for a director typically averages out to an additional two to three hours per week, including preparation for regular monthly meetings as well as special board meetings and participation on at least one committee. In addition, the board holds a mandatory orientation session soon after the elections, providing basic training and giving directors a chance to relax and get to know each other better. The board also holds periodic retreats that all directors are expected to attend. All directors can expect to spend 12 – 15 hours/month on board related activities. Directors with leadership roles, and especially the board president, can expect to devote an additional 5-10 hours per month to board service. Much of the work of the board is accomplished in committee meetings, so board members generally participate in at least one committee.

What compensation is there for serving?

Each director receives a $100 monthly stipend, paid in the form of a credit at the register to be used for store purchases. (Board officers receive a $125 stipend and the board president receives $150 in recognition of the additional time commitment for these positions.)

I'm sure I have the time to commit, and I want to serve Eastside; how else can I make up my mind whether or not to run?

- You are invited to attend a store tour and dinner with current board members to learn about board service and ask questions. These sessions are offered from 5:30 – 7:00 pm on April 16, May 21, and June 18.
- If none of these dates work for you, you can talk to a member of the current board of directors to get a personal perspective of service on the board.
- Owners are always welcome to attend the meetings of the board of directors on the second Monday of each month. You can see how the board functions and meet the current directors. Attendance at a regular monthly board meeting may give you useful perspectives on the issues currently facing Eastside.
- Additionally, the board meeting minutes are available upon request.
- For any of this information, please contact us at board@eastsidefood.coop.

When will elections be held?

The annual election occurs in the fall as part of the annual meeting. Our bylaws allow the board to authorize paper and/or electronic balloting for a period prior to the annual meeting with final, in-person votes cast at the Annual Meeting. The 2018 voting period will begin several weeks before the annual meeting.

OK, I've decided to run—now what?

To help the owners make an informed decision regarding the directors they elect, we ask you to complete or attend the following:

- 1) Fill out the Board Candidate Application included in this packet on page 9. You must submit your completed application and a high-resolution photo by July 2, at 5 pm, to be included in this year's election packet. (You can either drop off your application at the customer service desk or email it to board@eastsidefood.coop.) Your responses to the application questions and your photograph will be published in the election packet, online, and through other avenues.
- 2) Participate in a Meet the Candidate reception on Saturday, October 6 from 1:00 – 3:00 pm.
- 3) Prepare an optional, one-minute candidate video to be posted on Eastside Food Co-op social media channels. Store staff will manage the technical aspects of creating the video. (More details to be provided at a later date.)

It sounds like a big step!

Board service is worthwhile! As a cooperative, Eastside is only as strong as its ownership. The board traditionally has been a diverse group of people with a wide range of skills who have helped the co-op become a vibrant organization that benefits our owners and serves our community of Northeast Minneapolis and the surrounding area.

Policy Governance

The Eastside Food Co-op board operates using the Policy Governance™ model, which was developed to allow boards to maintain accountability for organizational performance while focusing on providing visionary leadership around our ‘big-picture’ mission. With the recognition that delegation is a significant component of our accountability, the board maintains written documentation of expectations for ourselves, our organization, and our general manager. Our policies are the primary vehicle for recording these expectations, and we actively monitor compliance with these policies on a regular basis.

The relevance of this methodology stems from (1) the fact that a significant volume of information is required to fulfill our fiduciary duties; (2) the need to delegate authority in order to accomplish our organizational purpose; (3) the desire to ensure that our owners and stakeholders are well served by organizational accomplishments.

The Policy Governance model is designed to allow the board to delegate with great clarity by completing three steps:

1. Expressing the expectations of the job being delegated.
2. Assigning the expectations with no ambiguity to the party who is to be held accountable for meeting them.
3. Checking that expectations were met.

We have four general categories of policies that express our expectations for ends to be achieved and the acceptable means by which to achieve them:

- A – Ends Policies. Ends policies broadly state the desired organizational outcomes. They describe the ongoing priorities of what should be achieved and for whom. The general manager is responsible for reporting on compliance with Eastside’s Ends policy once each year. Eastside’s current Ends policy states: “Eastside Food Co-op is at the forefront of a prosperous and fair cooperative economy. We provide access to healthy food, foster positive environmental impacts, cultivate a thriving community in our neighborhood, and educate members for a sustainable future.”
- B – Executive Limitations Policies. The Executive Limitations delineate job expectations and acceptable constraints within which the general manager can act. The general manager develops a written report for the board on each of these policies on a regular basis throughout the year, and the board evaluates whether the interpretation was reasonable, and makes conclusions about whether the general manager is in compliance. If it is determined that we are not in compliance with our policies, the board discusses the reasons for this result and establishes parameters and expectations for achieving compliance within a set time frame. The board may require additional monitoring of the policy (on a more frequent basis) or even conclude that the policy needs to be revised.

- C – Board Process Policies. The ‘C’ policies describe how the board is organized and its process and products. The board evaluates its compliance with these policies throughout the year.
- D – Board-Management Relationship Policies. These board-management policies describe how the board delegates to our sole employee, the general manager. The board evaluates its compliance with these policies throughout the year.

Our approach to crafting policies is to begin with broad statements regarding allowable and prohibited behavior, and make increasingly specific policies. For example, a policy that prohibits the general manager from violating the law provides a concise statement of expectation (and is a lot easier than trying to think of and then write down a list of all the illegal actions which could be undertaken!). A more specific policy might require that a certain level of insurance be carried to protect Eastside’s property. We limit the level of detail in our written policies to that which is required for the board to accept any reasonable interpretation of those policies. This approach allows for the maximum flexibility and creativity within clearly established boundaries and provides a system for delegation and accountability. (It helps also to have a manageable amount of policies – it would be much more difficult to monitor 200 pages of detailed policies! Furthermore, it keeps us out of the micro-managing realm so that we can focus on the big picture questions like, “How can Eastside be at the forefront of a fair and prosperous cooperative economy?”).

The advantages of using the Policy Governance model are:

- It enables the board to focus on the future, and provide high-level organizational leadership rather than focusing on day-to-day operational issues. (After all, if the board does not provide this type of leadership, who else could?)
- By deciding on the larger issues about ends and means the board can maintain meaningful control of the organization while allowing others to decide on smaller issues.
- The board can delegate genuine authority to others without failing in its own accountability – the parameters of delegated authority are clearly established by the board, allowing for decisive leadership by others.
- Regular assessment of compliance with policy provides a systematic method for evaluating organizational performance because the board knows what to look for.
- The board and its subordinates (e.g. its committees, the general manager) know what is required of them because expectations are clearly articulated. Since the design of jobs has already been decided, the board can distinguish the proper course of action when confronted by questions without having to spend time defining the nature of governance itself.

The board of directors exists for the sole purpose of ensuring, on behalf of our (legal and moral) owners, that the organization performs as it should. We must constantly evaluate our purpose – the impact we want to create for owners, our community, and for the broader world – that justifies our existence. This brings us to the most important question: what difference does having this co-op in the world make to you?

The Policy Governance methodology was developed by John Carver as a means to structure board process to allow for board accountability on a meaningful level and empower the board to lead their organizations at the highest level. The term Policy Governance is registered and protected. Carver’s website address is:

 - Education, training and information
 - Cooperation among cooperatives
 - Concern for community
4. Tell us your experience in working with fiduciary responsibilities for an organization.
5. Tell us your experience in collective-decision making.

Responsibilities of Board Members

Please read carefully and check each item to indicate that you are willing to take on these responsibilities. In general, members of a co-op board of directors have the same duties as the directors of any business. In addition, co-op boards must act on behalf of Eastside's owners (as fiduciaries), meaning that individual directors have to balance individual interests, business interests, and member interests when making decisions. To do this, directors must be able to:

_____ Uphold fiduciary duty on behalf of Eastside's owners

_____ Adhere to the principle of board holism, which means individuals are expected to voice independent opinions in board discussions but support majority decisions

_____ Exercise due diligence in monitoring Eastside's financial condition

_____ Maintain confidentiality when required

_____ Faithfully honor all legal obligations that come with directorship, which include the:

_____ Duty of care (make informed decisions in good faith; act as a prudent person; use a good process for decision making; be honest; ensure adequate record keeping)

_____ Duty of loyalty (always act in the best interest of the cooperative; disclose and avoid conflicts of interest; engage in no self-dealing; maintain confidentiality)

_____ Duty of Attention/Diligence (attend meetings; participate in discussions; be prepared; review materials; ask questions; know and adhere to state laws and the co-op's Bylaws; support Board decisions and policies; honor contracts)

Expectations of Board Members

Please read carefully and thoughtfully; check each item to indicate you are willing to meet the expectation:

_____ Shop regularly at the co-op.

_____ Be prepared for meetings and special meetings when necessary, including carefully reviewing the agenda packet in advance of meetings.

_____ Participate fully in board meetings. Attend all monthly meetings, as well as any meetings of committees you may serve. (Total average time commitment is 2-5 hours a week for non-officers). Special projects may require more time commitment.

_____ Actively participate in board discussion via e-mail or phone between meetings as necessary.

_____ Attend the fall Board Orientation on Monday, October 29, 2018, 6:00 – 9:00 pm.

_____ Attend board retreats (typically 1-2 per year)

_____ Attend the annual meeting, in-store tabling, and other special events.

Please submit this form along with your application and written responses to questions.
